

Outback Steakhouse & Seoul Night Tour

Outback Steakhouse at Itaewon Street in Seoul

Located in the Itaewon neighborhood, an area popular with ambassadors, foreign businessmen and locals alike, in the heart of the town's entertainment and shopping district, Outback Steakhouse Seoul promises to be one of the area's leading restaurant and nightlife destinations.

Seoul Tower, a landmark of the metropolitan city of Seoul, is introduced with its new name and look to provide more fun and excitement. It is viewable from almost anywhere in Seoul and serves as an excellent landmark. A 852 feet high peak in Namsan Park, the tower reaches to 157 feet above sea level. When the weather and pollution levels cooperate, visiting the observation tower (1213 feet above sea level) allows you to view the entire city and surrounding areas. Because of the great view, many people enjoy climbing up here for early morning exercise or for a romantic stroll after dark.

Itaewon is a special tourism zone that stretches all the way past the Hamilton Hotel to Hannam-dong. It is honeycombed with about 2,000 shops as well as jazz bars, nightclubs and ethnic restaurants. This district is popular with both foreign residents and tourists. In the core area around the Hamilton Hotel are clustered 1,000 shops selling leather goods, bags, clothes, shoes and tourist souvenirs. The sidewalk is fringed with about 400 roadside stalls attracting shoppers with accessories, hats, T-shirts, small gadgets and much more. Itaewon is the area most densely packed with diverse ethnic restaurants, such as Italian, Swiss, German, Mexican, Indian, Pakistani, and Thai.
