What is the Air Force Innkeeper Awards Program?

The Air Force Innkeeper Awards Program was created in 1981 and is managed by the Lodging Branch, Combat Support Division, Directorate of Operations, Headquarters Air Force Services Agency (HQ AFSVA). The annual award is to recognize lodging operations that provide the most outstanding hotel-type lodging and customer service to Air Force travelers. The annual competition begins with on-site evaluations to select the eight MAJCOM winners. There are two categories, large base (286 bedspaces and higher) and small (under 285 bedspaces).

A travel trophy is presented to each award category winner. By 1986, the Innkeeper Award had grown so much in credibility and prestige that it garnered the support of the American Hotel and Lodging Association (AH&LA). In 1997, the Innkeeper Award was presented at the International Hotel/Motel and Restaurant Show for the first time. It is currently presented in New York City during the Annual Lodging Managers Conference held in November.
